

Using the RMIT Design Archives website to access material remotely

If you are unable to visit the RMIT Design Archives, you can still access over 12,000 records on our website, including over 7,000 with images and pdfs. This guide will help you navigate our website.

Collection Highlights

The Collection Highlights allows you to browse through a range of collections which have some material digitised for your research and enjoyment. Many of these collections also have objects which have been catalogued but not yet digitised (or for copyright reasons are unable to be published online), so you can view the full list of catalogued materials in the Advanced Search section, by searching by Collection Title. Select the collection you wish to see in the drop down menu as pictured below.

If you would like to know further information about a catalogue record, you can contact our team at rmitdesignarchives@rmit.edu.au and we will be happy to assist where possible.

Collection Inventories

Each collection has a listing of its holdings available for you to view in PDF format. The Collection Inventories is organised by design discipline, then donation. As there is sometimes more than one donation relating to a collection, there may be more than one inventory. If there is something in the inventory which you cannot find catalogued on the website, you can contact our team at rmitdesignarchives@rmit.edu.au for more information.
