SECTION 4: Applicant statement

SECTION 5: Applicant submission

Design ideas exercise

Please read the following instructions:

For this exercise you are asked to identify an issue or major site and respond to it by presenting bold ideas and visions for its future. Your site, if you choose one, can be a building, a street or a public space, or an area that you believe has untapped potential to be reconsidered through design. Your design vision might be informed by problems or opportunities you identify within the site; or as a reaction to current or recurring issues facing society or the built environment; or it may be purely a way of expressing your ideas about design.

You are encouraged to be ambitious and brave in the design work that you present in response to this exercise. In preparing your response, think broadly, imaginatively and be creative. Your proposal does not have to be practical or even possible, it could be for now or a long way into the future. There is no one correct response to this exercise and you are not expected to have any substantial prior knowledge of architecture; the selection panel will be assessing your ideas and vision and not your ability to draft architectural drawings or plans. You should draw on your own experience and put forward your own ideas. Consider the issues or site and your design response carefully before preparing your final submission so that your ideas are clearly presented to the selection panel.

Please illustrate your submission on the following page. You may attach up to a maximum of four (4) additional A4 sheets (please note, only A4 sheets will be accepted). Your submission should include the following:

Clearly identify the issue or site you are responding to.

- A concise written description of the design problem or site and your analysis of what you have identified as issues or opportunities for your design proposal (maximum 100 words).
- A clearly written description of the design proposal (maximum 100 words).
- Graphic illustration of your design proposal.
- You are free to use any medium to communicate your ideas including: drawing, illustration, model making (submit photographs only), photomontage, collage, painting, computer modeling/rendering (hard copy printed material only) - anything that you think will express your ideas and proposal. You should expect to spend approximately eight hours on this exercise.
