

Future Edge FAQ's

What is Future Edge?

Future Edge is an employability program designed to help you gain the skills and experiences you'll need to achieve your goals.

Am I eligible for Future Edge?

All current RMIT students are eligible.

Why should I register for Future Edge?

Future Edge helps you bring together all of your co-curricular experiences, such as your part-time job, volunteering work or internships to enhance your employability. During the program you will learn how to show case your skills and experiences to employers. You can manage your progress online at your own pace, and reflect on all the skills you will develop throughout the program.

What will I gain from participating in Future Edge?

Future Edge will help you:

- use your co-curricular activities and leadership experiences to increase your employability
- connect with students, industry partners and expert career consultants during your participation
- get the most out of uni life with fun activities and events
- gain valuable skills such as professional communication, teamwork and leadership
- benefit from your on-campus and off-campus voluntary activities.

What official recognition will I receive when I successful complete all of the Future Edge requirement?

When you successfully complete the program you will receive a Future Edge certificate and acknowledgement of your participation on your academic transcript of results.

Will I get credit towards my degree if I join Future edge?

No, Future Edge is a co-curricular program so you will not get academic credit awarded towards your degree program. You will get skills and experiences that are valued by employers.

Why do I have to complete activities from each of the three Employment edge, Development Edge and Employability edge categories?

Completing activities across all three categories will give you diverse personal and professional skills and make you more employable. This range of skills will give you a cutting edge in the competitive job market.

What are co-curricular activities?

Co-curricular activities are designed to help your personal and professional development and enhance your student experience and employability. They are not formally part of your degree program. Co-curricular activities include but are not limited to:

- voluntary programs
- internships and volunteer programs
- employability skills workshops.

How long does it take to complete Future Edge and when do I have to complete it by?

You can complete the Future Edge program at your own pace while you are studying at RMIT. If you are completing Future Edge in your final year, you will need to complete the Program by 15 October, or 30 May if you are graduating mid-year.

This gives the Future Edge team time to ensure you receive full recognition for your participation on your academic transcript at graduation.

Does my work or voluntary experience qualify as one of my Future Edge activities, even if it's not related to my degree?

Yes, your work experience will be recognised as one of your Future Edge activities, even if it is not related to your degree. This includes any full time, part time, casual or volunteer work.

How can I sign up?

All students at RMIT can undertake Future Edge. Registering is simple and can be done via CareerHub.
